"Excuse me?" Leorio whirls on the shorter man, who's furiously blushing.

"I said kiss me."

"And why exactly would I do that?"

Tonpa looked taken aback, but then nodded his head a bit. "I understand that this is weird coming from the man who tried to stop you during the Hunter exam, but I've changed, really. _You've_ changed me."

Leorio's entire body was screaming at him to run and get the hell out of there. He hadn't meant to bump into him at the station and he honestly doesn't know why he had tolerated him so long and let him tag along for shopping, and now he regretted keeping his temper in place

"I'm sorry, I can't do that."

He felt a twang of guilt as Tonpa's face dropped, but he would not let himself fall for this guy's antics.

"Whyâ€¦ why is that?" The man muttered into his hands, making Leorio really want to get out of there now, but he stood his ground. Just now to find an excuse that wasn't 'I hate you and never wanted to see your guts again' as a response.

"I'mâ€¦ dating someone."

"Oh?" Tonpa looked up, tilting his head out of curiosity, and Leorio really wanted to kick him.

"Uh, Melodyâ€¦ she's a buddy of Kurapika's. She's a great flute player and really sweet." He hoped that if asked, Melody would go along with it, because while she was really cute, there was no way he would inadvertently ask someone out like that, especially not her.

"I seeâ€¦"

"Yes, so as you can see, I really must decline your offer, and with that, your company. Good day." He turned around, and walked as quickly as he could without suspicion, his groceries would have to wait for another day. As he walked away, he dialed a number on his phone, looking back every so often to make sure he wasn't being followed.

"So you'll never guess what just happened to me."
